

To whom it may concern,

The additon of Instant Traffic and Weather to my xm radio has been a big help. I drive a truck for a living and good pre planning is the best way to keep my stress level down and for me to be the safest I can be driving down the road. I also listen the am radio for some talk shows, however, they broadcast traffic and weather about every 10 mins. A lot of times its down in sections et. North side of town, then 10 mins later South side. XM breaks it down but i dont have to listen to the entaining shows waiting for information that I need. If you say XM cant broadcast the traffic and weather how can you allow the FM and AM channels. XM is radio, only on a different band.
